Difference of opinion: sex sells (DVD) (Staff only)

9.0 DIF RC

55 Minutes - 2007

Are we sexualising kids and young women through ads, magazines, video clips and popular culture? It's claimed that there has been a proliferation of sexualised images of girls that are teaching girls to be sexually desirable and this has led to eating disorders, poor body image, depression and anxiety. Popular culture is being blamed for these developments, but is the issue more complex, and indeed worth getting worried about? What's going on? Who or what is to blame? And what's the solution? A group of eminent panel discuss these issues.

Suitable for educators and general public.

Dreamworlds 3: desire, sex and power in music video (DVD)

9.0 DRE RC

54 Minutes - 2007

This DVD examines the stories contemporary music videos tell about girls and women, and encourages viewers to consider how these narratives shape individual and cultural attitudes about sexuality. Illustrated with hundreds of up-to-date images, Dreamworlds 3 offers a unique and powerful tool for understanding both the continuing influence of music videos and how pop culture more generally filters the identities of young men and women through a dangerously narrow set of myths about sexuality and gender. In doing so, it inspires viewers to reflect critically on images that they might otherwise take for granted. Includes study guide.

Suitable for upper secondary schools.

Education of Shelby Knox (DVD) (Staff only)

Sexy inc: a critical look at the phenomenon of hypersexualization (DVD)

9.0 SOP RC

35 Minutes - 2007

Are children being pushed prematurely into adulthood? Sophie Bissonnette's documentary Sexy Inc. analyses the hypersexualization of our environment and its noxious effects on young people. Psychologists, teachers and school nurses criticize the unhealthy culture surrounding our children, where marketing and advertising are targeting younger and younger audiences and bombarding them with sexual and sexist images. These stereotypes treat girls of all ages as sexual objects, and exercise a damaging effect on their identities. Because they see degrading images of sexuality on the Internet, some children confuse sexual relations with pornography. Sexy Inc. suggests various ways of countering hypersexualization and the eroticization of childhood and invites us to rally against this worrying phenomenon. Includes handbook.

Suitable for teachers, educators, trainers and young adults.

Teen truth: an inside look at body image

3.16 TEE RC

24 Minutes - 2009

What do teens see when they look in the mirror? Regardless of how closely their actual bodies match their perception, teenagers' body image can dramatically affect their self-esteem, eating and exercise habits, relationships with others and ultimately their health. Three compelling personal stories reveal how peer and media influences drove these teens to engage in life-threatening behaviours. Teasing and exclusion led Emily to develop an eating disorder and Kayla to binge eat her way to obesity, while Nolan's desire to be bigger, stronger and faster ended in health hazards due to his performance enhancing drug use. Includes handbook.

Whatever! The science of teens (DVD)

3.16 WHA RC

125 Minutes (5 episodes) - 2009

Teenagers seem to live in a world of their own design and creation– a world summed up best with one very commonly used word -'Whatever!' We all know the clichés but are teens just designed to defy? Or is this latest batch of Australian teenagers really a 'new teen order'? Consists of five episodes. The Episode 1: Risk: Why do they do such reckless things? Sex, drugs and alcohol aren't the greatest threat to teenagers - it's their own brain. Episode 2: Binging: Why should we worry about teens experimenting? It's a natural phase of development isn't it? Actually, teenage binge drinking may leave you with few fond memories. Episode 3: Sex: Teens are re-writing the rules of sex but while their bodies suddenly become adult, they're not necessarily in sync with their chief sex organ - the teen brain. Whether they're having sex or not, whether their parents like it or not, teenagers are sexual beings. Today's teens are having sex earlier, clocking up more partners and are more sexually adventurous than ever. It all starts with puberty, the human sexuality switch, but it's the teen brain that drives this change, influencing teen sex lives in surprising ways. Episode 4: Mood: Why are they so moody? Sulking is actually good for teenagers, but only in the right doses. Whatever! Episode 5: Sleep: Why won't they get out of bed in the morning? They may like to sleep in, but teenagers are often actually chronically sleep deprived. Includes English captions.

Suitable for upper secondary students, parents and teachers.

Love in full colour: a film about coming out, coming of age and falling in love

6.8 LOV RC

43 Minutes - 2015

Love in full colour was shot over close to four years. In 2012, director Suzi Taylor came across a small news story about the 'Same Sex Formal' – an event held in Melbourne each year for same sex attracted and gender diverse students and their allies. It was for the high school students who missed out on their own school formals or debutante balls - either because they didn't feel safe or comfortable to attend, or because their schools had explicitly forbidden them from bringing a same sex partner. In the lead-up to the same sex formal, Suzi met and interviewed some young organisers of the event, along with others who were attending for the first time.

Suitable for secondary school students.

Sexual Diversity

My shocking story: Which sex am I? (DVD) (Staff only)

3.13 MYS RC

45 minutes - 2008

Is it a boy or a girl? It's the first thing a mother wants to know after giving birth. Sometimes doctors can't answer. One in 500,000 of babies are born with genitals with some degree of ambiguity. They are not clearly male or female. These children are categorised as intersex, a group that includes many conditions, each one a group of its own. This is the story of Jacob a baby born in the Philippines. Doctors call him a hermaphrodite because he was born with organs of both sexes – a penis, testes and a uterus. This DVD follows his parent's journey to USA and the decisions they make.

Not so straight (DVD)

6.8 NOT RC

Dreamworlds 3: desire, sex and power in music video (DVD)

9.0 DRE RC

54 Minutes - 2007

This DVD examines the stories contemporary music videos tell about girls and women, and encourages viewers to consider how these narratives shape individual and cultural attitudes about sexuality. Illustrated with hundreds of up-to-date images, Dreamworlds 3 offers a unique and powerful tool for understanding both the continuing influence of music videos and how pop culture more generally filters the identities of young men and women through a dangerously narrow set of myths about sexuality and gender. In doing so, it inspires viewers to reflect critically on images that they might otherwise take for granted. Includes study guide.

Suitable for upper secondary schools.

Four corners: Being me (DVD) (staff only)

Science is on the cusp of discovering the origins of gender - the old mantra, girls have XX chromosomes and boys have XY is no longer reliable. Scientists believe that transsexuals may hold the key to the gender puzzle. This Australian program also talks to people who were born with indeterminate genitalia at birth and the consequences of being allocated a gender by doctors.

Suitable for all ages.

Gender Issues

I am a girl	# 6.22 IAM RC
--------------------	----------------------

88 Minutes - 2014

There is a group of people in the world today who are more persecuted than anyone else, but they are not political or religious activists. They are girls. Being born a girl means you are more likely to be subjected to violence, disease, poverty and disadvantage than any other group on the planet. As each girl moves closer to coming of age, I AM A GIRL, a feature length documentary, reveals what it means to grow up female in the 21st century. Our journey takes the audience through a pastiche of diverse cultures and societies around the globe including Cambodia, Papua New Guinea, Cameroon, Afghanistan, USA and Australia.

Killing us softly 4: advertising's image of women (DVD)	# 9.0 KIL RC 2

45 minutes - 2010

In this new, update of her pioneering Killing Us Softly series, Jean Kilbourne takes a fresh look at how advertising traffics in distorted and destructive ideals of femininity. The film marshals a range of new print and television advertisements to lay bare a stunning pattern of damaging gender stereotypes -- images and messages that too often reinforce unrealistic, and unhealthy, perceptions of beauty, perfection, and sexuality.

Suitable for upper secondary school students.

The mask you live in (staff only)	# 6.22 MAS RC
--	----------------------

90 Minutes - 2015

The Mask You Live In follows boys and young men as they struggle to stay true to themselves while negotiating America's narrow definition of masculinity. Pressured by the media, their peer group, and even the adults in their lives, our protagonists confront messages encouraging them to disconnect from their emotions, devalue authentic friendships, objectify and degrade women, and resolve conflicts through violence. These gender stereotypes interconnect with race, class, and circumstance, creating a maze of identity issues boys and young men must navigate to become "real" men.

Suitable for secondary school students.

Sexy inc: a critical look at the phenomenon of hypersexualization (DVD)	# 9.0 SOP RC
--	---------------------

35 Minutes - 2007

Are children being pushed prematurely into adulthood? Sophie Bissonnette's documentary Sexy Inc. analyses the hypersexualization of our environment and its noxious effects on young people. Psychologists, teachers and school nurses criticize the unhealthy culture surrounding our children, where marketing and advertising are targeting younger and younger audiences and bombarding them with sexual and sexist images. These stereotypes treat girls of all ages as sexual objects, and exercise a damaging effect on their identities. Because they see degrading images of sexuality on the Internet, some children confuse sexual relations with pornography. Sexy Inc. suggests various ways of countering hypersexualization and the eroticization of childhood and invites us to rally against this worrying phenomenon. Includes handbook.

The beauty backlash (DVD)

9.0 BEA RC

2007

Beauty is a worldwide, multi-billion dollar industry yet much of this demand is generated by making women feel insecure about their bodies. In this program, Libby Porter examines how this is done through image manipulation and blanket advertising. She also looks at how companies like Dove are bucking the trend and using 'real women' of a normal body range to sell through inspiration not insecurity. Interviews with marketing experts at Saatchi and Saatchi, genuine consumers, a psychologist and a representative from the Eating Disorders Association make this program one that will inspire and empower young women and educate and inform everyone else. Includes handbook.

Suitable for secondary school students.

Catalyst: Don't die young - the female reproductive organs (DVD)

3.16 CAT RC

35 Minutes - 2008

In this DVD Dr Roberts takes a closer look at the female sexual organs to find out exactly that people know about them. Again, she asks people in pubs to complete female sexual anatomy jigsaw puzzles and hops into a giant plastic hamster ball to re-enact the journey of an egg travelling down an oviduct. Dr Roberts undertakes one of her trademark dissections - this time of a female pig's reproductive organs - straps on an 'empathy belly' to find out just what it feels like to be pregnant, and attends a live birth. She then takes a look at an MRI of her own internal organs to help explain exactly where you can find the ovaries, fallopian tubes, uterus and other girlie bits; puts sexually transmitted infections under the microscope; and provides some practical advice on preventing cervical and breast cancer.

Suitable for use with upper secondary school students.

The choice: personal stories about abortion (DVD) (Staff only)	# 2.3 CHO RC
---	---------------------

2006

Abortion has been available in Australia since the early 1970s and several generations of women have freely accessed abortion in that time. And yet it seems that talking openly about it remains one of the last taboos. The program attempts to break through that barrier and, in doing so, contribute to the ongoing debate that continues to surround this highly contentious issue. Director, Don Parham has built the narrative of The Choice around six stories with people from diverse backgrounds and various ages. These people share their most intimate thoughts about what it was like to be suddenly confronted with an unwanted or unplanned pregnancy. Their stories reveal the varied and complex circumstances in which people struggle to work through their options and make, what is, for most, a difficult choice. (Commissioned by SBS Independent, in English)

Difference of opinion: sex sells (DVD) (Staff only)	# 9.0 DIF RC

55 Minutes - 2007

Are we sexualising kids and young women through ads, magazines, video clips and popular culture? It's claimed that there has been a proliferation of sexualised images of girls that are teaching girls to be sexually desirable and this has led to eating disorders, poor body image, depression and anxiety. Popular culture is being blamed for these developments, but is the issue more complex, and indeed worth getting worried about? What's going on? Who or what is to blame? And what's the solution? A group of eminent panel discuss these issues.

Suitable for educators and general public.
