

Do you want to help us create and promote the largest ever study of LGBTI young people in Australia?

La Trobe University are working on a national study about the experiences of lesbian, gay bisexual, transgender and intersex (LGBTI) young people aged 14-21. We want to ensure young LGBTI people across Australia have their voices heard. The findings from the study will help us understand the experiences of these young people and shape future services and policies aimed at LGBTI young people.

We are looking for a group of young people to help make sure the survey is;

- Easy to understand and use
- Asking the right questions, in the right way
- And to help us create strategies and materials to recruit young LGBTI people from across Australia to participate in the survey

We are holding a one-off focus group meeting on Saturday June 1st from 11am-1pm in Adelaide CBD.

We're looking for:

- Young people living around Adelaide, particularly in rural/regional areas, aged 14-21
- Who identify as lesbian, gay, bisexual, pansexual, transgender, gender diverse, intersex, queer, non-binary
- Committee members will be reimbursed for their time and travel costs
- No knowledge, engagement, or LGBTI activism background is required or expected

If you have any further questions or know a young person who would benefit from this opportunity and like to be involved please get in touch with Ivy McGowan at the Australian Research Centre in Sex, Health and Society by emailing a little bit about yourself and why you would like to be involved i.mcgowan@latrobe.edu.au or call (03) 9479 8790.

Your privacy and confidentiality will be protected at all times, and anything you share in this space will be kept confidential. You will never be identified in anyway in any materials or reports in any way.

Permission from carers/guardians/parents is required for participants under the age of 18.
